

MARCH FOR SCIENCE - PANAMA CITY, FL

This is a satellite march to the Washington D.C. March for Science. We are located in Panama City, FL. The march will take place on April 22nd, 2017. All funds raised will go towards the march and following events. It is time for science to be heard; whether you be a scientist, science enthusiast, or just appreciate all that the scientific community has contributed, you are welcome with us. Regardless of background, we encourage all to join us in supporting sound science. With this march, and all we do after, we hope to influence policy making to include research and data provided to us from the various scientific fields. We also hope to bring better education opportunities to those in need or who may face a cut in funding to their institution, agency, school, organization. We appreciate your support for the March for Science in Panama City, FL.
