my daughter is suffering from critical blood disorder called thalassemia major. since from 7 months baby every month she was under blood transfusion and she needs wBC filtered blood once in every month now she completed 7 years we didn't get fully matched doner for her bone marrow transplantation we have no other option to stop her blood transfusion for every month we both parents are half matched with her HLA so we have decided for her permanent cure..because if in life long we go through blood transfusion it will cause multiple organ failiur due to over load of iron from monthly blood transfusion.. So we have got the estimated cost of 35 lakhs so are not that much stable about the treatment expence so please help us to save our daughters life
